HUMAN INTEREST NEWS ALLOWED

Partial Lifting of Ban on Tid- ing of Camp Affairs.

Boston, Aug. 24.—The character of news that may be published regarding the troops of the Twenty-sixth division was indicated in a statement by Major-General Edwards yesterday. "Now that the troops have reached the various camps," said General Edwards, "I see no reason for prohibiting publication of news of human interest character regarding the camps, provided that no mention is made of the number of men in any command." General Edwards made it clear that while the previous ban on publication of camp news had been lifted, the press would be expected to suppress any information which may in any manner come into its possession concerning the movement of military forces toward seaports or of the assembling of military forces at seaports from interference might be drawn of any intention to embark for service abroad; and any information of the assembling of transports or convoys, or of the embarkation itself.

(By Associated Press.)
The Austrian line on the Isonzo front has been broken in several places by the vigorous assaults.

The Italian forces are fighting around Tolino and the Adriatic and pressing the Austrian defensive back yard by yard.

One of the most brilliant features was the capture of Monte Santo at a height of 2245 feet. This point, seven miles north of Riga dominates the plateau north and holds up any progress to the eastward.

The struggle to obtain this Austrian stronghold on the mountain top was a great achievement.

Having obtained their principal objective on the Verdon by the capture of Hill 304, the allies contented themselves with only making local attacks. Profiting by the capture of Hill 304 they advanced their lines to the northward.

No infantry attacks are reported on the British front.

COAL DEALERS MADE ENORMOUS PROFITS

(By Associated Press.)
Washington, August 25.—That Boston coal dealers, with a few exceptions did not hesitate to take advantage of the coal shortage last winter and charge prices that resulted in enormous profit, was the statement made by the Federal Trade Board today.

The commission's report on the coal situation is that some wholesale and retail dealers made profits on egg coal of $3 per ton and one retail dealer who had increased his supply $7 per cent made profits ranging from $3 to $4.52 per ton.

Favoritism is also shown in the distribution of coal from the coal mines.

PEACE NOTE A PRELUDE TO NEW GERMAN MOVE

Washington, D.C., Aug. 25.—The world is about to witness a new phase of the war, a new departure of Germany, of which the inevitable peace proposal was the prelude. This is the opinion here of those who have learned to watch for new developments when Berlin manifests concern for humanity. When the Pope's appeal was issued, it is now revealed, von Hindenburg's guns were pointed toward Riga with Petrograd as a possible objective. The northern end of the eastern front, then, has become the point of interest to observers who by training know it is time to be on the alert when the white dove flutters.

It has been a time of considerable uncertainty in the national capital. For 48 hours it had been whispered about, "something extremely serious has happened in Russia." No official would tell what it was, but all had appeared most grave. To those who knew the signs, however, the serious news, whatever it might be, was a part of the routine following peace offers and they were the least perplexed of all.

Then on Thursday it developed that the German offensive on the Riga front had resulted in a Russian retreat of 10 miles, indicating the probability that Riga would be in a position to strike for Petrograd.

That the Russian situation is grave is freely admitted, but that the general condition is in any way rendered more serious by events in Russia is not admitted by representatives of the Entente. Other events that have come to light have more than offset the action on the east front, and have shown to what lengths economically Germany has been driven. The notice served upon Holland that the more steel for shipbuilding will be furnished Germany's little neighbor unless a promise is given to use the ships in the interests of Germany for five years after the war, it is pointed out, is another indication of the "upreaching time when in the last throes of desperation Germany will overrun the small neutrals about her."

Mr. Robt and other members of his mission have told the State Department of the pressing needs of Russia. Principal among these is rolling stock for the distribution of the crops. "This Government stands ready," it is understood, to render every possible assistance as much to place the new Russian Government in a position to maintain itself as to render it an effective fighting machine. It is understood, however, that the Entente calculations on fighting forces do not take as much account of Russia as before the recent reverses, and the United States is looked to now as the coming deciding factor in the war for peace. The hope is still strong, however, that the conference of Moscow long postponed will result in agreements among the conflicting elements that will bring about a solidarity of sentiment in the later constitutional assembly which will have the duty of formulating the details of the new government system.

It is pointed out that preliminary to the present offensive on the north, Germany instituted a propaganda of corruption, and disorganization in Russia on a scale vaster than any heretofore attempted in any country. It was more far reaching than even the plan organized in the United States to bring about an uprising of German-Americans here a year or more ago. The German-Russian propaganda has for its purpose the continued and aggravated disorganization of the many elements in Russia, precisely the same as it had in China and elsewhere. Disorganization, upheaval, dissensions, anything but the unity and harmony, these are the instruments of evil in Russia that have prepared the way for the march of von Hindenburg's soldiers to the tune of the Pope's peace chant.

If the machinations of Germany in Russia have produced the results desired by Berlin to the extent that Russia will be a negligible quantity in the war, and if Germany is to succeed in creating a desert waste, from her own borders to the southeast of Europe and through Persia to Baghdad, as President Wilson vividly portrayed in the window of the Washington Monument on Flag Day—a speech which his friends now point to as a prophecy—it is considered something more than fortunate that a mission of Juhan, clothed with plenary powers is at present in Washington. It has been seen since the news from Riga came, that even in Russia might be such that the usefulness of little Japan near the eastern terminal of the trans-Siberian railway might be put to the test.

During all this time quiet and an attitude of calm waiting are maintained at the Russian Embassy. Out of consideration for these officials, the Government did not give out the reports it has received. Efforts were even made to discount the seriousness of the news with the statement that even the capture of Riga would not necessarily mean a crisis to Russia.

It has been said though not officially, that the German propaganda has included nothing less than the restoration of the Romanoff dynasty, and that this coup would follow the entrance of German forces into Petrograd. It reports are true that the Russian Government has planned to remove the capital from Petrograd to Moscow, the anticipation of the German restoration of Nicholas would account also for his recent removal to Siberia.

If any evidence was needed to show the insincerity of Germany in any peace proposals, it is furnished by the movement in the east and by the increased pressure being brought to bear upon neutrals. It is pointed out that the grasping at straws, the guarding against the inevitable day do not indicate a change of heart that augurs well for the world's peace.

The least deceived of any of this Nation's officials is the President, one observes. During all the days these events have been taking place he has been busy himself with the very methodical process of going over formidable arrays and columns of coal and steel figures—tables that have reminded him of the long forgotten log-arithms at Princeton, possibly studying out a basis whereby every family in the United States, the War and Navy departments and the ammunition factories of the Allies may get coal at a fair price and not be mulcted by mine owners who would profit by the Nation's necessity, and how the Government may get steel for its need in the war. One of these days the President will get a moment away from the war forced upon the country and try to catch up with his correspondence. Many of the letters on his desk are invitations that call for respectful declinations. One is the peace appeal.

LABOR LEGISLATION 1916

Perhaps the most striking legislation reproduced in the annual volume of labor laws of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, which has just been issued as Bulletin 213, is the act of congress establishing eight hours as a standard work day for employes operating trains on steam railroads in interstate commerce. Next to this may be placed the federal statute excluding from interstate traffic the products of the labor of children employed in mines in quarries under the age of 16 years, or in mills, canneries, factories, etc., under the age of 14 years; the hours of labor of children under 18 years of age must not exceed 8 hours a day, nor may such children work between 7 p. m. and 5 a. m.

State laws affecting the employment of children are also strengthened, as in South Carolina where the age for employment in factories is raised from 12 to 14 years, while in Maryland the 14-year limit is extended practically to all industries except canning and packing. Laws regulating the employment of women are comparatively numerous in 1916, and it may be said that laws affecting women and children constitute the largest single group of laws appearing in the bulletins. In addition to statutes, there are important orders of industrial and welfare commissions, fixing wages and hours for these classes of employes, and regulating the conditions of employment generally. Of special interest is a rule issued by the Oregon Industrial Commission fixing the hours of labor; minimum wages; and learning periods of women and minors, including males up to 18 years in wide range of employments. It is in compliance with the provisions of the minimum wage law, of the state which was recently declared constitutional by a tie vote of the supreme court of the United States, one justice not voting.

The effect of federal legislation on state action is apparent in the enactment of liability laws for railroad employes in South Carolina and Virginia, which follow in large degree the pattern of the federal statute on the subject. Most of the states of the Union have compensation laws, reproduced upon to the end of the year 1916 in Bulletin No. 203 of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. A few states retain the liability doctrine and the action of South Carolina and Virginia tends at least to harmonize federal and state practice, though not coming up to the compensation standards generally accepted.

MEN WHO MISSED COMMISSIONS

Some spirited young men who were not given places in the officers' reserve corps at the close of the first camp are resentful and are fretting over their future part in the war. Their disappointment partly excuses their resentment. So rigorous was the course so high the prize, and so keen the competition that the boys who failed certainly suffered from an unpleasant reaction after the period of tension and they deserve the utmost consideration.

It is the duty of their friends to sustain and encourage them until the readjustment is achieved.

Failure to get an officer's berth does not justify giving up the army, however much its disappointments the candidate. Some of the rejected are veterans of two years of training at Plattsburg or some other school. They make the best sort of instructors for material in the national army to be mobilized next month and the war department wants them for that work. With few exceptions they can enter as top sergeants and pass on to raw recruits the lessons learned this summer. Of course this action entails a sacrifice in pay and most of all in giving up the commissioned man's point of view which the training camps tend to produce, but a man's first duty is not to himself, but to his country and believing that young fellows who missed it should lose no time placing themselves for further usefulness.—From the Pittsburg Gazette Times.

URGERS GERMAN TO FIGHT FOR TWO YEARS LONGER

All World Will Be Short of Food Then Scientists Explain

Washington, August 25.—Two more years of war will reduce the entire world to the same shortage of food as now exists in Germany, according to scientists in that country, who have compiled statistics to support their statement.

Acting on this statement the German government is urging its people to continue the war two years more, declaring that if it is done, Germany cannot be defeated, because the countries at war with her will not endure the hardships which the Germans are willing to undergo.

Though the years are numbering higher, Another roll call may we see For the old 13th New Hampshire, And that means you and me.

We'll take our rations and with cheers From care and worry free, And go again to our Mecca Wehrs, This rest for you and me.

And tell again the old, old story With our banners floating high, Neath the shade of old, Old Glory, My comrade, you and I.

NEGROS INDICTED FOR MURDER IN TEXAS CAMP RIOT

Thirty Four Soldiers of the 24th Infantry Included in Charge--Searching for Eight More

(By Associated Press)

Houston, Texas, Aug. 24.—Blanket indictments charging murder in the first degree, were made today by District Attorney John Crocker against thirty-four members of the 24th Infantry, who took part in the riot here last night and resulted in the killing of seventeen persons, four of the dead being members of the local police force. This is the first indication of the State to remove the men from the jurisdiction of the army and place the prosecution in the hands of the state officials.

Of the 125 men taking part in the riot all but eight are accounted for and parties of police and civilians are searching for these. The arrested negroes are being held at the county jail awaiting action by the state authorities.

Fear of further rioting were checked when it became known tonight that the 24th Infantry had been ordered removed from duty by the war department. Major General James Bell, Jr., has been placed in command relieving Brig. Gen. Hulen who was placed in charge by order of Governor James E. Ferguson when he put the city and district under martial law.

The riots were the climax of disputes between the members of the police and the soldiers of the 24th regiment over the regulations and enforcement of order. The negro troops were doing guard duty at Camp Logan, near here.

Indications of the bitterness between the white police and the negro troops are shown in the mutilated conditions of the four dead policemen, all of whom were badly cut and stabbed by bayonets. The negroes hold that the police were brutal in their killing of Captain Matter, one of the first to fall in the riots.

THE CHARLOTTE, N. C. TRAINING CAMP

As the time is rapidly approaching when the enlisted young men of New England will leave their camps for the concentration camp at Charlotte, North Carolina, a short article in regard to that southern city and Camp Green to which the boys are going will, doubtless, be of interest to our readers.

Charlotte is a city of 50,000 inhabitants and just now has about 6000 more who are making preparations for the coming of the army of 50,000. About 70 per cent of the population is white, and only a small per cent less than one per cent is foreign born. The common laborers are largely southern negroes who are of a happy, southern type. There are many New England families in the city and New England men are prominent in directing many manufacturing establishments. There is an active New England club and it with other clubs and societies are making great preparations for the hearty welcome to the southern soldiers who are now coming peacefully where their fathers came to fight. The Central hotel has been reopened and the Presbyterian college is being made over into an apartment house in order that the many visitors who will come to see the soldiers may be accommodated. Last week the Boy Scout troops made a house to house canvass of the city in order to get a list of rooms that may be rented when hotels are unable to take more guests. They are preparing to extend their hospitality to the coming hosts. Charlotte is situated on a well drained plateau seven or eight hundred feet above sea level and has a climate much like southern California and is free from the coast diseases that caused the loss of so many men in camp during the Spanish war. A branch of the Catawba river, a creek, as they call it, runs on each side of the city and provides ample drainage. Charlotte has a commission form of government that is active and efficient; and has a chamber of commerce it is proud of.

There are several fine hospitals and sanitariums in the city. Near the city is the residential park subdivision called Myers Park and consisting of 1200 acres which is being developed into beautiful homes that make it already famous in real estate circles as one of the foremost residential developments of the country. Queens college for girls, and Homers Military school, are situated in this park. In proportion to its population there are more homes owned in this city than in any other in the country. It has 67 miles of paved streets with beautiful shade trees.

The coming of the northern troops will give a chance for the north and south to get acquainted and those who are working for the development of this section will be glad to meet those from cities which take pride in their centres of development for the New England states. It was in Charlotte that the Confederate cabinet held its last meeting and on its streets Jeff Davis first heard of the death of Abraham Lincoln. Stonewall Jackson's home was there and his widow resided there for many years. A monument in front of the court house celebrates the signing of the Mecklenburg declaration of independence, May 21 1775, which according to strong tradition substantially antedated Jefferson's and the day of May 21 is now celebrated as independence day in that section. Camp Green itself is named for a Rhode Island general who led revolutionary troops against the English in that vicinity in the war for independence.

Camp Green is a reservation of ten thousand acres about two miles south west of the city and has running through it several newly constructed government roads as well as the roads which previously existed on the property.

The section around the city is considered one of the most healthful in the country and ideal for a camping place. The fall season will be just started when our troops arrive. It lasts wet into December as the foliage stays on the trees much longer than in the north. Even then there remains the beautiful evergreen trees of red cedar, magnolia and American holly to take the place of the fallen leaves.

There is very little snow as December and January are more apt to be rainy months. In the winter the average is about one day in four with a temperature below the freezing point.

The average winter day is clear and cool with a temperature at 7 a. m. of 30 to 32 degrees, warming up to 50 or 60 degrees at midday and cooling in the evening again. One day last winter was 71-2 degrees below zero and was the coldest day in seven years. The spring months from February to May are the most delightful of the year. The summer months though warm are not so oppressive an account of the low humidity.

The city is on the northern side of the cotton growing section and has located within 60 miles of it over half of the cotton mills of the entire country. The cotton is now in bloom and it is probable that the first picking will be in progress when the troops arrive. The city has about 150 cotton industries, including cotton seed oil, flour and cotton machinery mills. It is the center of the large electrical power development of the Southern Power Company, which already generates 200,000 horse power and has not reached its full development. Its large number of varied industries insure its future prosperity. Next to Atlanta it is the largest railroad center of the south. It is on the Southern railroad and the Seaboard Air Line as well as being terminus for lines from Asheville, Savannah, Columbus and Spartanburg. It is also a terminus of the Norfolk and Southern road.

The total number of buildings for the camp is estimated at 970 and less than half of these have been completed at present. Along the road about 80 mess halls are being built identical in construction and extending over a mile. Buildings are being constructed in groups at various points on the reservation in order to avoid congestion of men at any one point. There will be a postoffice named Green Branch, at the camp, to handle all of the mail for the soldiers and employees of the camp. About 20 carloads of lumber are being received at the camp each day and it is estimated that 50 acreloads could be used if it could be obtained daily. The greatest problem at camp now is getting the lumber for the buildings and the delay in lumber may make the completion of the buildings late until later than Sept. 15. Two gigantic water towers will soon be erected. They will be constructed of California red wood, supported on timber towers 75 feet high and resting on a concrete base. Each tank will hold 200,000 gallons of water. A 12-inch water main will be laid and six inch mains from it to various points in the camp. This main is to be connected with the city water supply.

The construction company is finding some difficulty in getting men to work on Sunday at the camp and in this emergency it is quite necessary to carry on the work every day. The chief clerk of the construction company states that in Charlotte religion is almost hereditary, and while the people are intensely patriotic they are slow to see the necessity of doing any work on Sunday. This is characteristic of the high percentage of Scotch-Irish population who are almost Puritanic in their religious ideas. The people of Charlotte who have considered New York as their "North Star" are looking forward to the arrival of the famed New England troops and are preparing to make them feel glad that they have come.

DON'T ACCEPT AIR CRAFT OF THE ALLIES

Washington, Aug. 24.—Tests of the standardized United States airplane motors designed and built under direction of the air-craft production board, made it positively certain that American-made fighting machines will be available for service in France early next year. Probably three distinct types of service craft for the Army will be turned out. They will be the small, swift machines designed for air fuels and to screen observation and bombing craft, daylight bombing machines, slower than the fighting craft but still fast enough to minimize the danger from anti-aircraft guns and big enough to carry observers, photographic outfits, radio and bombs in addition to their guns, and the still slower night-bombing machines, in which carrying capacity is increased at the expense of speed because darkness protects them from gun-fire.

The United States motor, it is understood, was not designed primarily for speed. Durability and reliability was the object of the American engineers who are not satisfied to accept without question the verdict of the French and British air services as to the most satisfactory types of craft for fighting purposes.

WILL REMOVE NEGRO TROOPS FROM TEXAS

Washington, Aug. 24.—Negro regulars, who engaged in last night's riot at Houston, will be moved at once from that city, Secretary of War Baker announced today.

After calling on Baker, Senator Stephen D. Dyer, Texas, said he will recommend to war department that no more Negro troops be sent into the Lone Star state.

Baker informed him that a message from Gen. Baker said troops were being sent in from several directions and that the situation was well in hand.

Secretary Baker also said that the Houston affair did not affect the policy of training Negro troops in the South.

It is within the jurisdiction of the commander of the southern department to move the troops to any other point in his territory without orders from Washington.

AMERICAN CAMP IN FRANCE BUSY AND BOOMING

With the American Expeditionary Army in France, Aug. 24.—The American zone of influence in France is perceptibly widening.

One day a French village welcomes the invasion of a few mail-blazing automobiles. Within a few days the same village is in readiness to its almost capacity, to accommodate a host of democracy's newest crusaders. Barracks appear like mushrooms to shelter the war students in the coming winter.

The whole zone was a booming, bustling, busy-busy of activity today. Realistic sham battles progressed on the fields, with drills of open order formation, grenading and bayoneting. The original contingent, now anticipating it will soon know all the war novelties that it is possible to learn without actual experience, hopes that newcomers will prevent them going stale.

Congressman McMillin McCormick of Illinois inspected the American camp today.

Inexpensive Floors that Look as Well as Hardwood

When a floor is bare and polished, it is often referred to as a "hardwood" floor, when such is not the case. The reference has come to apply more to the style than to the wood itself. There are today other woods on the market which cost far less than hardwood, are just as beautiful, and wear practically as well. We can show you these stained in beautiful colors.

Keyport, N. J., Aug. 24.—One Chinese laundry business is for sale in Keyport. Its present owner is Chin Ann, who has been drafted for the new national army. He has successfully passed the physical examination and has declared he will not seek exemption. "I have been washing and ironing Uncle Sam's shirts and collars for a long time. If I do not fight for that Uncle Sam now I be what 'Mexican man call a bum sport," said Chin, as he waved aside the exemption papers. The Chinaman then explained that he wanted to fight in the French trenches, but because he is a good cook he probably will be assigned to duties in the commissary department. Chin was born in San Francisco 31 years ago. He is well built, weighs 136 pounds and is five foot four inches tall.

PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America

More Motor Car Value At Less Actual Cost

This is the day of big values in motor cars. Never before in the history of the industry have you been able to buy, per dollar, so much comfort, so much utility, so much real motoring value.

We make this statement in the face of sensational advances in the cost of labor and materials. Those motor car makers who have followed the scientific, progressive manufacturing methods that have made the industry remarkable have not been forced to advance the price of their cars anywhere near the proportionate increase in the cost of materials.

We believe that no other industry has achieved as a group of successful motor car manufacturers among them, the Paige—have achieved—in constantly increasing quality and constantly keeping down the cost.

Today you can buy more motoring value for $1600 than you could for $3500 five years ago.

Then your purchase price did not include a self-starter, a windshield, a top, headlights, tire carrier, etc. Now you find all these things, as well as innumerable others, making for luxury and comfort, on your car when it leaves the factory. The purchasing power of the dollar in this field has increased to an extraordinary degree.

As for the relation of price to value the Paige-Detroit Motor Car Company has always been in a most fortunate position. Low capitalization, low overhead, low profit per car combined with scientific management and the most complete manufacturing equipment have enabled this company to put the maximum of value into its product and also to keep the price down.

These unique assets, too, account for the quality that goes into every Paige car—quality which has reduced to the minimum the cost of maintaining and driving and enjoying The Most Beautiful Car in America.

That is why you can buy so much quality in The Most Beautiful Car in America at so low a figure in spite of rising markets. It is the secret of Paige leadership and Paige popularity.

Send Them to Jail.

The pillaging of war gardens has begun. In fact, it began some time ago and is gradually assuming more extensive proportions, as the crops mature and offer greater temptation to such as are willing to profit at the expense of others, and of their own manhood, though this quality must be grievously lacking in any person who will stoop to the despicable practice of pillooting other people's vegetables and fruits. But, according to newspaper reports, there are too many people who are ready to do this, and in some parts of New England there has already been serious trouble along this line. In at least one Massachusetts town the gardeners have not only been persecuted by petty pillooting, but in some cases the stealing has been conducted on such a scale that teams have been used to haul away the loot.

Quite naturally, the victims of these raids are aroused, and it is comforting and assuring to know that the authorities stand squarely with them in the determination to put a stop to the vicious practice if such a thing is possible. One man who was haled before a Massachusetts court the other day on the charge of stealing from a garden pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three months in the house of correction. The justice who imposed the sentence took occasion at the time to say that in his court no fines will be imposed for offenses of this character. Conviction will mean a jail sentence in every case.

In the district where this occurred the Public Safety League asks the co-operation of all garden owners in putting a stop to pillooting operations. They are asked to report the names of any persons they may know to be guilty of the practice, and are even authorized to hold such persons, if they can, until the police can be called. A good beginning has been made and the chances are that the evil will be largely checked in that region. It is to be hoped that the people and the courts will take a similar stand wherever there is a war garden, and this means in every part of New England and the country.

When the war gardening movement was inaugurated last spring those who joined it were promised all the protection the law could afford, and the time is now at hand for the fulfillment of that pledge. The crops have been grown and the thieves are at work. Unless their vicious work is repressed with a stern hand it will be so discouraging that many will not plant gardens another year, feeling that it will be only a waste of time and effort.

The plundering of gardens is an evil that should be nipped in the bud and action along this line can not be too vigorous. The Massachusetts justice who has decided to jail every convicted offender instead of letting them off with fines has set an example that should be followed by every court having such cases to deal with. If this is done there will be relief from a practice for which there is no excuse in time of war or in time of peace.

The New Hampshire College at Durham demonstrates its interest in conservation in a very practical way. The opening of the fall term has been postponed for two weeks to give the students employed on farms more time for harvesting the crops, and the faculty further opportunity to carry on the conservation work in which it has been engaged during the summer. This is a suitable step. The students can study just as well when they have to wallow through snow in going to recitations.

At the coming fair there will be some of the best racing ever seen in this part of the state. The fair will also have many other excellent features and promises to be the best of recent years in all respects. The people of Portsmouth and vicinity will miss something if they do not attend the fair this fall.

And now Boston is robbed of another glory. It was claiming the youngest officer in the reserve army in a Plattsburg graduate of 23 years when this city stepped to the front with one in his 22d year. Portsmouth objects strenuously to kidnapping, not only of babies but of honors.

The credit for the growing unpopularity of "bootlegging" in Portsmouth is due to a healthy public sentiment and the activity of the police, whose faithful discharge of their duty appears to have convinced cheap adventurers that discretion is the better part of valor.

Newspapers that are severely criticizing the suffragettes for using "Kaiser Wilson" banners should not indulge too freely in talk about "kaiser senators." We must have free speech in this country, even in the halls of Congress.

If it is true that Emperor Nicholas has been sent to Siberia with his family he is in a position to realize as never before what mighty changes are brought about by the whirligig of time.

American troops look good to the English and French, and the reason is easy to understand. When you see them in the

From the Exchange

The Passing of Senator "Hennery."

(From the Manchester Mirror.)
The climax of over four years of misrepresentation of the interests of the people of New Hampshire and the country by United States Senator Henry P. Hollis was reached a few days ago when his name was on the great patriotic food bill, so important and significant to the needs of the nation and a measure affecting the existence of 80,000,000 people, including nearly half a million of his own constituents.

As usual, in the hour of a great national emergency, he turned the demagogue, instead of the patriot.
He tied up with the little band of uncontented in the United States senate and talked and voted against the most important measure touching the welfare and the livelihood of the American people that has ever been considered by congress in the history of the government.

Instead of standing by the flag, his country and his people, he ran up the red banner of socialism and made a speech that would do credit to an I. W. W.

In scathing language, a patriotic Democratic southern senator, John Shreve Williams, bitterly assailed the policy of Hollis and the little coterie which shared his views.

No less severe is the comment here in New Hampshire of the reprehensible action of the junior senator among men in all parties.

His public position on the food bill, his vote against this great humane and essential proposition, was the most unpopular act of his very unpopular career.

His "disappearance" during the trying days of congress, at the time of the declaration of war with Germany, and the fact that it developed he was at this time passing his days on the golf links of a North Carolina resort, made much unfavorable talk throughout this state and chagrined his close friends, but it has remained for this very recent unfortunate service to his country and his people—his vote on the food bill—to put the quietus on his political future in New Hampshire if anything additional was needed.

If he enters the senatorial contest in 1918, it will be a guarantee of Republican success.

The voters of New Hampshire will next year select a man for United States senator who will be true to their interests, true to the country and who will work and legislate for the welfare of the people.

They will select a man who will be faithful and strong in the hour of national calamity and one who will be at his post of duty.

They will put a man in the United States senate who will be a constructive statesman, instead of a destructive one.

His name will not be Hollis.

The Last Parade

(From the New York Tribune)

The Grand Army of the Republic marched in parade up Beacon Hill and all too likely Boston there saw the last considerable gathering of these veterans in a national assembly. Only eight thousand veterans formed the line. Of these five hundred came from New York. The years take a heavier and heavier toll. Only memories will soon be left to us of those who fought in the last great fight for human liberty.

Time makes swift changes and often exaggerates the difference of a half century. Warfare has been revolutionized. The blue uniforms of the 60's seem ancient and out of date. The whole scale of the present strife is so vast that the battles of the Civil War appear petty by comparison. We feel that we have new and more difficult problems, more confusion, a less sharp defined issue, more doubt.

Yet, fundamentally, nothing changes. The parallels of strategy with the Civil War are amazingly close. The battle of the Albes has become a close repetition of the pounding process by which alone, in the end, Grant and the Union prevailed. Nor was there really less confusion then. In fact, the North held treachery and sedition and doubt such as we know today. And victory depended upon exactly the same devoted self-sacrifice of the youth of the land that mingles our cheers and our tears today. The white haired veterans of 1917 were the boys of '61. As they pass one another on parade we see the farewell of one brave generation to another not less brave and devoted and ready, we confidently pray and know.

How Doth the Busy Bee?

(From the Brooklyn Standard Union)

Even the bees have shown unwanted activity in this season of urgency in the production and conservation of food supplies, and a record-breaking amount of honey is promised as their output. Besides the quantity for home use it is expected that there will be a large surplus sent to Europe for the use of the soldiers in the Allied armies.

Honey is Wasted Every Year

(From the Farm and Fireside)

The present centring of attention by economists on food waste is showing that one of the most unnecessary losses of a valuable food product is the ungathered nectar of flowers.

Speaking in a broad way, there are few farms in America that do not annually produce several hundred weight of honey over and above the honey required to sustain the bee harvesters of this amazing staple food product. The farms on which the owners systematically plan to save their honey at present are less than one in a hundred. On several million American farms where this honey goes unharvested year after year this wastage aggregates billions of dollars.

A Minnesota scientific bee culturist, Francis Jager, is authority for the statement that 100 colonies of honey bees suitably located and properly cared for can be expected to average a net production of profit twice as great as that of the average 160-acre farm of his state can show, while the equipment and overhead is less. Of course, 100 colonies of bees cannot be pastured on an average-sized farm, but there are innumerable farms where a dozen hives of bees could gather $100 worth of honey annually.

Gore Versus Pershing

(From the Detroit Free Press)

Senator Gore seems to have definitely joined the ranks of the Order of Congressional Assistants to the Kaiser. He has offered an amendment to the revenue bill providing that no money raised by the two billion dollar revenue measure shall be used to transport soldiers to France unless they volunteer for overseas service. This can be interpreted as nothing less than an effort for the nullification of the selective conscription act. Its passage would be a blow at the whole of the American preparation for taking part effectively in the fight against Berlin. It would cause hopeless confusion and turmoil and completely destroy what morale the nation has developed.

Gore endeavors to excuse himself with some childish talk about the needlessness of more men in Europe, and by presenting a grotesque scheme for arming 5,000,000 Chinese in our stead while we "conserve our own man power" and devote ourselves exclusively to making munitions, supplies, and profits. But his real motive for urging that we become a nation of slackers comes out in a naive admission that he is acting at the behest of Oklahoma constituents who are opposed to compulsory service. This is perfectly understandable, though scarcely creditable reason for Gore's attitude, and it classifies him effectively.

Although Mr. Gore's amendment is more pernicious than even the La Follette resolution which it supplements, the two together would provide a tolerably complete programme for taking the United States out of the war, and their passage would create unbridled exultation in Berlin. The bad effect in Russia of such demoralizing propaganda in Congress has been set forth convincingly by Charles Edward Russell, who has said that if the American public understood the consequences the agitation entails members of the National Legislatures would introduce such bills and resolutions at the risk of their lives. And now from France, simultaneously with publication of the Gore slacker scheme, there arrives a brief, earnest, straight-forward statement and appeal from General Pershing. That statement is worth the most careful perusal and the most hearty response. Pershing says:

"Every man, woman and child should support the Administration in its determination to arm and equip the American Army and to keep up its morale and that of the Allied armies. This war will not be won by talk or by subscribing to the Red Cross. The American people must come to a full realization of what the war means. It can be won only by striking hard and forceful blows, not otherwise."

There is nothing in common between Mr. Gore's scheme and General Pershing's declaration, but then General Pershing does not need to consider the votes of a few Oklahoma slackers. He is merely thinking of the honor and safety of the United States of America.

A Succession of Hard-Strikers
(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger)

Only a succession of hard, decisive blows can this war be won. General Pershing.

And the American troops now steadily moving across the sea to the war zone are getting ready to deliver them. There is nothing in common between Mr. Gore's scheme and General Pershing's declaration, but then General Pershing does not need to consider the votes of a few Oklahoma slackers. He is merely thinking of the honor and safety of the United States of America.

Saved by Co-operation
(From the Springfield Republican)

Canadians will help harvest the potatoes in Maine under an international arrangement like that providing for the entry of American harvesters into western Canada to harvest the wheat crop. This form of reciprocity is the best kind of mutual aid and both countries will be greatly benefited by it. Canada wants 40,000 harvest hands to handle a 13,000,000-acre wheat field. The war has much depleted the ranks of farmers' help in the Dominion and the thousands of American workers who have been heartily welcomed there. This welcome will be substantially manifested in high wages, good food, comfortable lodgings and reduced railroad fares. Canadians going into the Maine potato fields will be welcomed in the same way. The farm labor problem, which seemed so formidable in the spring, is being solved partly by these unprecedented cooperative methods, and the general situation is now so much improved that the Agricultural Department at Washington reports the country as a whole as having passed the crisis.

"Gen. Cole is All Military"
(From the Springfield Union news column)

Brigadier General Charles H. Cole, who assumed charge of the camp Sunday night, kept things moving. There was plenty of pep no matter where anyone went. Guards were posted and the curious were kept out unless they could produce the necessary military passes. General Cole is all military from top to bottom, and the fifty-second brigade is in excellent hands.

HOME-READING COURSE FOR CITIZEN-SOLDIERS

LESSON NO. 11.

Playing the Game.

(Preceding Lessons: 1. Your Post of Honor. 2. Making Good as a Soldier. 3. Nine Qualities of a Soldier. 4. Getting Ready for Camp. 5. First Days in Camp. 6. Cleanliness in Camp. 7. Your Health. 8. Marching and Care of Feet. 9. Your Equipment and Arms. 10. Recreation in Camp.)

There is a gripping interest about the soldier's life that makes a strong appeal to vigorous Americans. This is doubly true in time of war when the soldier has a serious object in view and gives his whole mind to his duties.

You will find this interest growing as you advance. New scenes and associations will bring you a new point of view. You will be less wrapped up than you have been in many purely personal questions. You will cut loose from many of the petty details which tend to smother a man's individuality. You will devote more time to thinking.

The healthy good fellowship of the camp also can not fail to stimulate you. Thousands of men drawn from all walks of life can not be thrown suddenly together without bringing to light many qualities previously unknown. You will probably become better acquainted with yourself than you have ever been before.

In order to get the most out of this new life you must devote yourself to it heart and soul. A good start is laid in the battle in making your way in the Army. Even if you are not now much interested in military affairs—if you are entering the service, not because of personal inclination, but solely because it is one of your obligations as a citizen—you are going to become keenly interested after you once get into the swing and spirit of the Army. This will be true in at least ninety-nine cases out of every hundred. Recognize it now and play the game hard from the very start.

Your Monthly Pay.

While the men in the National Army are serving at the call of duty and not for money, nevertheless everyone will be paid more than enough to take care of all necessary expenses. These expenses are very slight. Clothing, food and transportation are provided by the Government. In addition, the private soldier receives $30 per month while he is in the United States and $23 per month while he is abroad. Following is a table which shows the pay for some of the higher non-commissioned ranks:

Rank	In U. S. Abroad.
Private	$20.00 $23.00
First-class private	33.00 36.00
Corporal	36.00 40.00
Sergeant	38.00 44.00
First Sergeant	51.00 60.00

A man may allot such portions of his pay as he desires for the support of his family or relatives. He may deposit his savings with any "quarter-master" in sums of not less than $5. The quarter-master will furnish to each depositor a book giving record of his deposits. On the discharge of a soldier (but not before) the total amount of his deposits will be entered on his final statement and will be paid to him on presentation of his deposit book.

The rate of interest allowance is 4 per cent. This is one convenient method of saving money which many soldiers will desire to use. It is easier to save in the Army than it is in civil life.

Saving money is not only good in itself but is a sign that you are concentrating your time and energy on your military duties; that you are really playing the game.

The majority of the men who join the National Army are old enough and have sufficient good sense and self-control to conduct themselves properly, both on duty and off duty, without special advice or supervision. However, some suggestions may prove helpful.

Making Use of Spare Time.

The use that a man makes of his time off duty is a good test of his character and of his capacity for growth. The good soldier is self-reliant. Don't spend your time repeating tedious stories. They add nothing whatever to your standing, either with the men to whom you tell them or with your officers. Avoid boisterousness, vulgarity, and profanity.

This doesn't mean at all that you should keep yourself in the background or that you should fail to be a good "mixer." Let your personality shine out. Broaden your influence by every proper method. But use your personality and your influence to help the men in your own squad and company carry on their work and prepare as quickly as possible for the big task ahead of you.

Save some of your spare time for study. The manuals and drill regulations will grow more and more interesting to you as you become more familiar with your new duties. Memorize some of the important passages. Make yourself an authority on everything that pertains to company drill.

These are simple rules that will help any man, whether in or out of the Army, to make himself liked and respected. They are easy rules to observe. Follow them, and you will add greatly to your enjoyment of Army life and to your chances for promotion.

James T. Collins, a druggist at Salisbury Beach has entered the navy and is assigned to duty at the Norfolk navy yard.

Why Not One Here?

Constructions of new buildings and additions to present structures at a cost of $1,500,000 are under way at the Charleston navy yard. Several hundred civilian laborers and mechanics are engaged in this work, which is being rushed.

One of the largest of the undertakings is a six-story storage warehouse of "navy standard type" of reinforced concrete with a red brick veneer, to cost nearly $600,000. This U-shaped building which is centrally located just east of the power plant is about 264 feet long and 180 feet wide. On Friday the carpenters started the construction of forms for the second floor and the contractor will start to pour the concrete in about ten days. The building is to be finished about February 1.

Isn't it about time that somebody at the local yard got busy and reached out for some of this big appropriations for improvement of naval stations? Why expensive concrete buildings are being erected at Charleston, and wooden shacks at the Portsmouth navy yard is hard to understand. The present conditions demonstrate the fact that the Portsmouth station is badly in need of such improvements and the department is now giving the Massachusetts station.

Big Day for Freight

Twenty-six cars of various freight shipments were set in by the Boston and Maine railroad at the local navy yard on Friday.

Sailor Held

Philip Hines, 35 years old, of Everett street, East Boston, who was assaulted Thursday in a cafe at 217

Northern avenue, near Commonwealth Pier, died last night at the city hospital of a fractured skull.

Edward H. Lincoln, chief boatswain's mate, attached to the naval reserve corps at Commonwealth pier, who was charged with assault and battery upon Hines and held in $5000 bonds in the South Boston court yesterday morning, is now charged with manslaughter and will be arraigned on that charge today.

The police charge that Lincoln had an altercation with Hines and pushed him out of the door, that Hines fell, struck his head on the ground and sustained a fractured skull.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Believes It Would Save Money

Editor:

While we hear more or less about a new central fire station and horseless apparatus why not some improvements and less expense in the street department? Why not some motor driven equipment for this department. Every city of any importance has a motor truck for municipal work and money is saved. How long will this city continue to pay out unnecessary money for horses and equipment which is not only going by but is costly?

HATE FOR ENGLAND IS EXPLAINED

Vice-Chancellor Now Tells

Why Germany Went to War.

Amsterdam, Aug. 25.—Vice-Chancellor Helderich, in the course of the debate in the main committee, of the German Reichstag, said the real reason why Great Britain entered the war was the fact that Germany's trade would in 1917 presumably have reached the level of the trade of Great Britain.

"This war," the vice-chancellor said, "is the result of tension created by the fact that Great Britain was constantly feeling the growing and increasing disproportion between her superior naval and naval power and Germany's increasing economic strength."

"One ought clearly to recognize that Great Britain's object was 'our' economic oppression. To abandon oneself to any illusion in this respect would be fatal."

"Dr. Helderich repudiated an unjustified reproach that he ever had made any prophecies respecting the efficacy of the German submarine warfare."

"Prophesying," he said, "I leave to Great Britain. Premier Lloyd George's statistics in his latest speech are more humbling. If the British premier, contrary to his declarations in April, now draws a favorable picture of the situation—although it certainly has not become more favorable—this proves, first, that public feeling in Great Britain urgently needs to be comforted; and second, that Lloyd George considers it necessary to play upon German public opinion."

"The impression is confirmed by the obvious consideration that Premier Lloyd George's words can only be explained by the same direct motives which operate, despite the prospect of American aid, in the tremendous dash on the western front with the immense concentration of men and materiel. This menace is not so much on land or in the air as it is in the water."

"The opinion, shared by Mr. Lloyd George, that the weather, by making it favorable for U-boat activity, has mistaken one. Smooth seas and lulls in the wind are very disagreeable for U-boats, especially in view of the enemy's defensive measures regarding aircraft in particular. Some U-boat commanders are of the opinion that submarine warfare can be carried on with still better results when the weather is not too hot and the nights are longer."

"The navigation of ships under escort contracts the scope of the U-boats, of course, but it also involves considerable disadvantage for the enemy, owing to the fact that such a flotilla is unhandy and has difficulty in eluding a submarine attack quickly."

"As sea traffic diminishes, sinking, of course, will probably decrease gradually. To day the sinking of even a single ship is felt more intensely by the enemy than at the beginning of the U-boat war."

"The statements of our naval staff respecting the tonnage resources of Great Britain may be regarded as exact. Mr. Lloyd George's statements are artificial manipulations of figures. He mixes net and gross losses, anxiously avoiding definite particulars as to total British losses in tonnage. It is interesting to note his remark that all tonnage sunk among allied requisitioned for the military must be compensated from tonnage available for commercial purposes. His statement respecting British ship-building must be viewed with the utmost doubt."

"For continuation of the U-boat warfare all materials and the personnel required are ready in ample measure, so that, in a military respect, there cannot be any doubt that it will be continued efficiently."

GREAT SEASON FOR TRAPSHOOTING SCHOOL

Three Thousand and Twenty-Seven Persons Fired at 167,025 Targets in First Four Months

(By Peter P. Carney)
The school for the instruction of trapshooting at Atlantic City, N. J., is having a great season. July was the greatest month in the two years life of the school. 1925 persons shot over the traps with 20 gauge guns and the number of targets thrown were 52,300.

So far this season, 1927 persons, of which 117 were fair players, shot over the traps at 167,025 targets. 490 persons fired at 39,775 targets in April, 497 at 25,937 in May and 815 fired at 48,913 in June.

The total number of targets thrown in 1916 was 249,125 and the total attendance was 6122, of which 375 were women.

Besides the spoons for high scores for men, women and beginners, a spoon is now given to the boy under 16 years, who makes the best score each week at 25 targets and a hand trap is being awarded for the best score at 50 targets. This is a beginner's prize. A red target is being thrown one day each week and the shooter that breaks it is given 25 shells and targets.

The New Jersey Medical Society and the New Jersey Dental association conventions were held on the Million Dollar Pier and both associations gave some time to the sport of trapshooting as did the branch office managers of E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company at their annual gathering. Mr. and Mrs. Ad Toppervelt were visitors at the school daily for more than a week and they aided considerably in the instruction of pupils.

The scores during June and July were meritorious. Baylon Pardee, the horseman after winning the high score spoon for five weeks withdrew as well as ever. He had six straight 25s in the succeeding weeks but shot 25s one week and one day broke 28 out of 100.

In Fred Plum and Richard Elkins, both of Atlantic City, each won the high score spoon twice, as did John Carbeck of Chicago. W. O. Hickey, of Harrisburg, Pa., former Yale football player; C. C. Johnson of Forest Hills, Md., and Dr. Harry Fowler of Harrison, N. J., each won one spoon.

Man traps were won by R. E. Fulton, Catonsville, Md.; Dr. O. Fitzsimmons, Atlantic City, N. J.; P. H. McCoy, Atlantic City; C. W. Linseath, Jackson, Mich.; W. M. Plum, Atlantic City; C. J. Kane, Paterson, N. J.; John Penhelly, Jr., Chicago.

HAD TO PAY FOR DOGS WHEN TAKEN TO CHURCH

A curious illustration of change in manners and customs of church-goers, here in Portsmouth, is afforded by the following extract from the early records of the North Church:

"At a meeting of the First Parish in Portsmouth 8 April 1720. Voted that every person y^t suffers his dog to come to church on Sabbath Days shall pay to the sexton two shillings for every such offence & if any person refuse to pay the same, his dog may be killed."

WHY THE CROWN PRINCE DEMANDS HELP AT VERDON

London, England, Aug. 25.—It is reported tonight that the Crown Prince is urgently demanding help from the Crown Prince Rupprecht as a result of Petain's striking successes. This report lends interest to a remark of General Maurice in today's interview to the effect that just as the French had frequently facilitated the British operations, so the British whose offensive had started three weeks earlier than General Petain's, had facilitated the success of the French at Verdun. It was certain that the Germans had drawn reserves from their French fronts to hold up Sir Douglas Haig's attack.

Today's communiques continued in a quieter strain the story of the past few days. Sir Douglas Haig reports further slight advances southwest of Lens, the British grip which becomes steadily more pronounced. On the left bank of the Meuse the French are, very active last night, dominated the Germans, and General Petain records a striking total of captures since Monday, namely, 7500 prisoners, including, it is significantly noted, besides 186 officers, only 6000 wounded, 24 guns of all calibers and over 200 machine guns. Nine guns, moreover, were destroyed.

Yesterday was the fourth day of the Italian offensive, and up to yesterday the Italians had captured 350 officers and over 16,000 men. As the British captures in their area approximate to 4000 the grand total of prisoners during the past few days approaches 22,000. A similar phenomenon to that reported from Verdun is reported also from Italy. The Austrians, it is stated, are hurrying men from the Russian and Balkan fronts. These reports are from a reliable source and they certainly record phenomena which may be expected to appear. Austria must at all costs bring reserves to the Isonzo from somewhere. If the Austrian army there is not to be smashed and not only Trieste lost but Austria perhaps drawn out of the fight.

It is natural also that the Crown Prince should want help, for there are many possibilities about the French successful Verdun. To mention an interesting side issue the French thrust aims toward the iron mines of Lorraine, torn from France in 1870, and since supplying Germany with some 90 per cent. of the iron used in her munitions making. These mines are the crown of Germany's war effort, and without them Germany would be in a perilous position. The Crown Prince Rupprecht, however, will have trouble in spring men from his front, where retention of the Flanders coast and Lille coal district is only part of the task he has in his hand.

Considering the vital nature of the German positions at Verdun and Lens the striking feature of the recent war news is the weakness of German counterattacks and their practically complete failure. The feebleness of German counterattacks means greatly increased losses and grave moral effect on the troops, whereas the plan of the French and British troops is clearly indicated by the clean cut, decisive and extensive character of their recent achievements. It is true to say that the British and French successes in Belgium, during the past weeks is superior to achievements extending over a vastly more prolonged period.

STATE TO ASK FOR BIDS ON NEW ROAD

Federal Aid Project to Be Completed This Year.

Concord, Aug. 25.—Work will soon be started on New Hampshire's first federal aid project, the state highway department now preparing to ask for bids on the stretch of road on the Eastside trunk line which passes through Hampton Falls and Seabrook. The specifications call for a road of modified asphalt surface to be completed this year and about $18,000 is allowed to build the road for about a mile and a half.

With the completion of this road more of the Massachusetts tourists will, no doubt, dodge the long wooden toll bridge at Hampton and pass through New Hampshire to Maine without enjoying a stop-over at Hampton Beach.

There are several other federal aid projects which it was hoped would be worked out this year, but the scarcity of material and the shortage of labor it is thought will prevent them will be completed before the snow flies.

The engineers are rushing their work, however, and within two weeks more roads will be open for bids and it is hoped, by the commissioner of highways, that work will be commenced on most of these by the middle of the month of September.

This week has been a busy one for the men in the highway department and in all parts of the state, the maintenance and construction work is being rushed, that as much as possible can be done this year in the short working season.

Although the soldiers have left Camp Keyes the work of constructing the roads at the camp still continues, about another week being necessary to complete the project which was mapped out for the camp. Three motor trucks are hauling the gravel and the steam roller is also on the job.

The State Highway Department is receiving much praise for the work it has done in constructing the roads at the camp, the short time which it has taken to do the work and the good results which have been obtained speaking highly for the engineers who have been in charge of the undertaking.

The American Red Cross numbers nearly 3,000,000 American citizens among its members, and wants you to know that the sending of this commission with the measures of relief that it conveys and the others which we expect it will later administer are tokens of the earnest sympathy of the American Red Cross for the people of Russia in their brave struggle for the establishment of Democracy and for the perpetuation of a really independent national existence."

The American commission carried with it medical supplies to the value of $200,000. A second shipment of supplies is now being sent to Russia by the Red Cross. To cover this shipment the war council has appropriated $160,000.

NEWINGTON HAS HOUSE THAT IS 200 YEARS OLD

Newington has a house that was built 200 years ago, 1717-1917. It was built by Joseph Adams, the first minister of that town, and has been in possession of his descendants to the present time. It is a large two story, well constructed dwelling and well preserved. The meeting house near by is almost as old, in which Mr. Adams preached for more than sixty years. It is the oldest house of public worship in New Hampshire, and has been in continuous use to the present time. Both of these buildings are on the road leading from Moody Point to Greenland. The meeting house is about one mile from the toll gate at the bridge. Newington is an interesting old town. The revival of ship building in its river section adds much to the present interest of visitors.

DAIRYING CAMPAIGN

Dairy Division to Use Emergency Funds to Increase and Improve Output of Dairy Products.

A campaign to have every drop of milk produced in the United States make the fullest possible contribution to the food supply of the country will be launched immediately by the Dairy Division of the United States Department of Agriculture. This campaign will be carried on with the funds made available by the food production bill recently enacted by Congress. At present much skim milk and large quantities of other dairy and creamery by-products are fed to farm animals when, according to dairy specialists, a considerable portion of this might more advantageously be made directly into food or human consumption. Dairy products constitute cheap forms of food. Whole milk, skim milk, and cottage cheese and other cheeses are high in protein and are useful for meals.

In work for further utilization of milk in factories, the Dairy Division will devote special attention to cottage cheese manufacture. Creamery and milk plant operators will be taught cottage cheese making by a corps of specialists of the division, milk producers will be encouraged to send as much whole milk as possible to the creameries, and efforts will be made to increase the general consumption of cottage cheese by the general public.

Other specialists of the division will aid State extension workers in conducting campaigns for the improvement and increased manufacture of farm-made cottage and cream cheese. These specialists also will conduct demonstrations before groups of farm men and women.

TO FIGHT PLANT DISEASES

Campaign Against Destructive Maladies Which Reduce Crop Yields Planned.

Destructive plant diseases which annually make heavy inroads into the crops of the country are to be attacked with renewed energy by the United States Department of Agriculture. The extended work is made possible by appropriations carried in the food production bill which has just been enacted by Congress.

Special work will be undertaken by the Bureau of Plant Industry with a view to reduction of the destructive epidemics of black rust in the spring-wheat areas and reduction of the injury from grain smut, especially in the Central and Western States. The bureau also will place in the field additional expert pathologists to advise county agents especially in the control of destructive diseases of potatoes, beans, and truck crops, and will undertake special surveys to determine the causes of injury in regions suffering heavy losses from plant diseases in order that control measures may be undertaken promptly.

In addition to this work for the control of plant diseases, the Bureau of Plant Industry will seek to stimulate the conservation of food products by demonstrating proper methods of storing crops as may be stored in common storage, by improving the methods of storage, and by demonstrating the drying of farm products.

HOOVER GOES AFTER MEAT PACKERS TRUST SEEKING LOW PRICE

Leaves Washington for Conference and Government Regulation Will Follow Regulation of Wheat Prices

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Aug. 24.—Early regulation of meat prices is expected to follow the conference between Herbert C. Hoover, Food Controller, and the meat packers, to start tomorrow in Chicago. Mr. Hoover has already left Washington for Chicago and will investigate conditions. It is believed that the early control by the government of the meat industry will follow the investigation with the issuance of licenses to packers and for storage houses. The action to regulate the prices for meat in the country and plans for the transportation to the various points in the United States will follow the completion of the plan to regulate the prices of wheat.

$30,000,000 SUBSCRIBED FOR WAR RELIEF

A Directory has been issued by the Federal Council of Allied War Charities comprising some 75 national organizations engaged in war relief work in the countries of the Allies and showing that the funds raised by these organizations up to the present time and since the beginning of the war aggregate, in money and the value of supplies abroad, $30,000,000. The Directory further states that the organizations represented in the Federal Council have a membership of more than 2,000,000 persons with 5000 branches throughout the United States.

The figures quoted above, it is declared, are not necessarily final, but underestimate, rather than overestimate, the facts.

The Directory contains a statement issued by Judge Robert S. Lovett, national chairman of the Committee on Co-operation of the American Red Cross, urging that the public continue to subscribe funds to the various organizations, and to in no way lessen their activities because of the present broad scope of the work undertaken by the Red Cross itself.

A foreword to the Directory which was prepared under the supervision of John Moffat, Executive Chairman, says: "The publication of the organizations embraced in the Federal Council of Allied War Charities is impressive. It is not merely the number of separate committees, the comprehensive character of the work they have undertaken and successfully accomplished, nor the large sums which have gone directly to the cause of relief through many channels.

"The impressive fact is that so many distinct and separate agencies are harmoniously co-operating with the sole object of increasing efficiency and economy of operation and extending the widest and largest possible measure of relief to the War Sufferers. The federation of these organizations into a central body constitutes strength which could not otherwise have been realized. It has created, furthermore, a feeling of confidence in each organization and in the organizations taken collectively. This has resulted in an increased flow of contributions to the individual organizations, and has done much to create a basis for effective co-operation, with the American Red Cross, which could not have been achieved had each organization acted for itself.

"It is doubtful whether, in the history of the United States, so many persons of prominence have before been banded together with a common charitable object in view as are represented upon the committees contained in this Directory. The high standing of the individuals, the fact that they are known from one end of the country to the other, and that they have volunteered their services without other motive than to assist the unforunate victims of the war, constitutes a glorious chapter in the history of American philanthropy.

The Directory gives the names of the officers of each of the 75 committees and contains an outline of the work they have accomplished, together with a statement of the funds raised and how they have been expended. It provides an intimate view of the many phases of war relief which have been undertaken by America in the United States as well as those who have gone to labor in France, Great Britain, Serbia and elsewhere.

The Directory is the first compilation in one volume of the many activities represented by the 75 organizations. It is also virtually a Directory of the public spirited men and women of America, whose hearts have been touched by the fearful plight of the war sufferers in many lands.

The following are the organizations concerning which the Directory gives detailed information: American Ambulance in Russia, American Auxiliary of the Women's National Health Association of Ireland, Inc., American, British, French, Belgian, Permanent Relief, American Committee for Training in Suitable Trades the Maimed Soldiers of France, American Committee of Allied Home Fund, American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, American Committee of the American Ambulance Hospital in Paris, American Committee of the International Reconstruction League, American Field Service in France, American Fund for the Heroes of France and Her Allies, American Fund for French Wounded, American Girls Aid, American Students Committee of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, American Women's Hospitals, American Committee Collecting for the War Charities of the Queen of the Belgians, American Women's War Relief Fund, American Ice Pavilion Committee, Appal Aux Artistes, British American War Relief Fund, British Section of the Belgian Official Committee of Help for Refugees in France, British War Relief Association, Inc., Charlotte Maternity Fund, Chelsea War Refugees Fund, London (American Branch), Belgian Refugees Knitting Yarn Fund, Committee for Men Blinded in Battle, Committee of Mercy, Dorsey War Relief—Secours Duryea, Edith Wharton's War Charities in France, Emergency Aid of Pennsylvania, Federal Council Delegates, Franco-American Committee for the Protection of the Children of the Front, French Actors' Fund, French Bureau, French Tuberculosis War Victims Fund, Hospital Under Three Flags, Hudson River War Relief Committee, Joint Distribution Committee of the Funds for Jewish War Sufferers, Junior Patriots of America, Lady Helmstedt's Fund, La Fayette Fund, League of the Allies, League of Catholic Women, Le Bien-Etre Du Blessé, Les Gens de Lettres Français, Lord Charles Bessford's Fund, Mayfair War Relief, Mercy Committee of New Jersey, Militia of Mercy, Millicent Sutherland Ambulance, The London Motor Volunteer Corps, National Allied Relief Committee, National League for Woman's Service, National Special Aid Society, National Surgical Dressings Committee of America, Needlework Guild of America, New England Italian War Relief Fund, P. CRAZED MAN IN BATTLE WITH ARMED GUARDS

(By Associated Press)
Boston, Aug. 24.—Two armed guards and a police officer were engaged for some time tonight in a stiff battle with a man at the State House who was attempting to gain entrance to the building. Before his removal to the State Hospital he gave his name as Philip Gorden, aged 28, of this city. He said that he had recently been discharged from the State Hospital for the Insane at Binghamton, N. Y.

ITALIAN OFFENSIVE CONTINUING TO COUNT

(By Associated Press)
General Carboni's hard offensive against the Austrians on the Isonzo and Carso fronts in the Austro-Italian theatre is continuing successfully and further advances are being made. Already 500 officers and more than 20,000 men have been sent behind the Italian lines as prisoners and the Italians have captured sixty guns of various calibre in addition to numerous other materials.

On several sectors the enemy is indicating seemingly offensive movements against the Italians with the object of distracting the attention of the Italians from their drive through the center of the line but General Carboni's machine is working so smoothly that little attention is being paid to the efforts to draw his attention away from the objective—Trieste.

Not satisfied with their recent gains against the Germans at Verdun the French on Friday launched more severe attacks against the German Crown Prince capturing Hill 304, the scene of some of the bloodiest fighting known in the world, and also positions at Cammard wood and between Harcourt and Bethancourt, penetrating the German lines at an average depth of one and one-quarter miles.

Hard fighting is in progress between the British and Germans around Lens in Northern France and at Ypres in Belgium.

The Canadians operating against Lens have taken additional commanding positions near the outskirts of the city principally at Green Crasse, winning the point only after the hardest fighting. The position was desperately defended and changed hands several times during the day, being taken and retaken several times by the Canadians in hand-to-hand encounters before they rested finally in their complete possession.

On the Ypres front, however, Field Marshal Haig has met with slight reverses, losing some of the territory gained from the Germans earlier in the week. Crown Prince Rupprecht threw heavy charges of picked troops aided by strong reinforcements of fresh troops into the battle, regaining several important positions lost earlier.

The Berlin War office asserts that in the drive made by the British on the Ypres sector twenty-one tanks were destroyed by the gunfire of the Germans and the machines, it asserts, are lying between the lines in wrecked conditions in No-Man's Land. Some of the crews were killed while others were made prisoners the statement adds.

Details of the German offensive at Riga are still meager with the Germans claiming further gains along the river Aa, or the Gulf of Riga. The Petrograd official communication announces that only fuel-lanes are in progress on this sector.

In Roumania the Russo-Roumanian forces continue to face the enemy and the dispatches state that they are stiffening in their lines. At some points the Russians and Roumanians are reported to be on the offensive, succeeding in driving the enemy backward for considerable distances.

Since April 9 the official count of prisoners taken from the enemy by the Entente Allies is placed at 167,780 officers and men.

Extension Workers in Agriculture and Home Economics to be Placed in More Counties and in Cities.

Plans have been made to expand immediately the co-operative work of the United States Department of Agriculture and the State agricultural colleges by a large increase in the number of county agricultural agents and the home demonstration agents. This extension is made possible by funds appropriated in the recently enacted food production bill. Women agents will be placed for the first time in the larger towns and cities. More or less technical training in agriculture and home economics will be required in this service. The appointments are to be made on the recommendation of the director of extension work at the State college. Approximately 1,400 men agents and 500 women agents are at present employed. The plans formulated contemplate the extension of the men county agent work to all the rural counties in the Union in which there is need for the work and the placing of an additional agent in some of the larger counties already organized. They also contemplate a considerable increase in the number of women agents engaged in extension activities. The number to be employed will depend upon the number of trained men and women available. Proved ability in leadership as well as technical training will be required.

City Agents for First Time
The use of city agents in the conduct of the extension work of the department is a new departure made desirable by the importance attached in the present food crisis of the food to the conservation and efficient utilization of foods. The city demonstration work will be carried on by women agents who will work in co-operation with the existing organizations of women.

The aim of the extension work is to carry directly to as many people as possible information in regard to improved methods of agricultural production and home economics. Economy in the purchase and use of food, and methods of food conservation by canning, drying, etc., will be emphasized. The men county agents are concerned chiefly with agricultural production, while the women are employed in demonstration work in home economics.

Boys and Girls to be Enlisted in Club Work
With funds furnished in the food production act the States Relations Service also will seek greatly to enlarge the enrollment of young people in the boys' and girls' clubs which are devoting to increasing agricultural production and conserving the food supply through canning, drying, and other means.

The service also will work out problems in the efficient utilization of various foods and will aid institutions devoted to agricultural education to plan courses of instruction especially suited to the present emergency.

LIFTS BAN ON NEWS STORIES OF N. E. TROOPS

(By Associated Press)
Boston, Aug. 24.—The character of the censorship of news about the members and divisions of the 26th division of the National Guard army was defined today by Major General Clarence H. Edwards. He holds that as the men are in camp "human interest" stories of them may be published as long as nothing is printed about the number of men in any division or command, nothing said about the movement of troops, or similar information.

General Edwards characterized the censorship as designed at protecting the government by withholding news which would be of value to the enemy and urged that newspapers refrain from publishing any information which may come to them in any manner about the assembling of more troops at any camp, the entraining of troops for transports, the assembling of transports of convoys, or other facts which will lead to an indication that troops are being prepared for departure from France.

MUNITIONS GRAFT IN GERMAN ARMY COMES TO LIGHT

With the French Armies (by mail)—A veritable scandal in the German army is revealed in official documents taken from recently captured prisoners, showing that the occasional munition crises and shortage from which Germany is known to suffer are in part due to the munitions grafted and stolen, and demonstrating the seriousness of the metal shortage which Germany is at all times facing.

In order that not a single ounce of metal be wasted premiums were offered by the minister of war to the soldiers for returning all used cartridges, shells and bits of metal with which every battlefield is covered.

The premiums offered were so attractive that the soldiers hit upon the idea of taking the shells, cartridges and munitions served them, muttering or otherwise destroying them and then returning the broken bits as so much metal picked up in the trenches and on the battlefields.

Full details of the graft and scandal are contained in an official circular of the German minister of war, which reads as follows: "It has come to the knowledge of the ministry of war that on many occasions the military authorities charged with the supplying of munitions have not delivered integrally to the respective units the quantities received at the shipping depot, but have had recourse to various expedients in order to assure for themselves the premium offered for the salvage of munitions."

(a) Cases of cartridges have been broken open, the balls torn out, the powder burned and the empty cartridges returned as having been found and burned by the troops.

(b) The bands about certain projectiles, that were perfectly usable, have been torn off, the fuses unscrewed the shell thrown away and the copper bands and fuses returned as having been found by the troops.

(c) Other projectiles thoroughly intact have been thrown away in order to permit accomplices to find them and return them for the recompense given for the salvage of munitions.

"Copies of this circular furnished to troops at the front must be destroyed immediately after being read."

Because this last paragraph was not obeyed a number of these circulars have come into the hands of the French military authorities from prisoners.

U-BOAT SUNK BY AMERICANS OFF IRELAND

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 21.—The Standard Oil tank steamship Navajo, destroyed by fire at sea on Aug. 15, while bound for this port, had an encounter on her trip over with a submarine and sank the enemy vessel with her guns after a four-hour battle, according to members of the crew of 27 who arrived here today on an American steamer.

The destruction of the Navajo was caused by the explosion of a fuel pipe. The Navajo had three separate encounters with the submarine before she sank her, one of the officers said. She first met German air craft off the Irish coast and drove her off after the exchange of a few shots. The next day the sound of firing was heard, he said, and a large sailing vessel appeared pursued by what these on the Navajo identified as the U-boat. They had encountered the day before.

The German sank the sailing vessel and then engaged the Navajo for a second battle. There was an exchange of shots until a British hydroplane appeared and the U-boat submerged. A fog settled down and the airplane returned to shore. When the fog lifted the U-boat was found lurking near and the third engagement ensued. The tanker was damaged in the stern, but in turn registered a hit "squarely beneath the U-boat's periscope."

The Navajo proceeded to France for repairs. When she caught fire on the return trip the crew was rescued and landed at an Irish port.

WAR BOARD NOW HAS 53 FOR ARMY

Get Sixteen on Friday, the Largest Number Since Examinations Opened.

The honor men picked by the war board for the selective draft now number added to the list was that on Friday when 16 were certified. It was the most successful examination so far conducted by the board. The men not claiming exemption are the following: Emil B. Nichols, Newmarket; Douglas J. Gould, Portsmouth; Telephore Tourigny, Newmarket; R. H. Buswell, East Kingston; Peter A. Pullam, Portsmouth; Everett W. Bennett, Greenland; Horace W. Craig, Portsmouth; Sumner P. THE HERALD HEARS

That Mr. Hoover should know something about all the hay going to waste in this state, even if it is animal food. That James Ricks, colored, of Newburyport, received a lesson in patriotism which he is not likely to forget for a few days.

That James batted into a store where some men were talking on the war and said "The Kaiser is a great man and I will take my hat off to him."

That some one of the party floored the colored man with a right hand swing and the next swing landed him in the street.

That it did not end there. The police brought him in and he was obliged to salute the flag.

That more finey's have been engaged by the workmen at the shipbuilding plant to take them back and forth from this city.

That the Maine Auto association will try to have all towns of the state put uniforms on traffic police.

That this follows the hold-up at York where two men posed as officers and took money from two women.

That the list of evaders in the war draft reach the district attorney automatically.

August 23, 1917.
Dear Major Hartford:
I am enclosing a check for ten dollars for the Y. M. C. A. hut at Fort Stark, as referred to, in this morning's Chronicle.

Cordially yours,
WINTHROP L. MARVIN.
Major P. W. Hartford, Editor The Chronicle, Portsmouth.

Deserves Generous Support

Editor Herald:
The effort to secure money for permanent winter quarters for the Y. M. C. A. at the forts surely deserves the generous support of our citizens. Gifts are many these days. Those who do not enlist must back up those who do and one of the best ways is through support of the Y. M. C. A. in the camps. As a near neighbor of the forts I have seen something of the work. I heard the favorable comments of the men and realized thus what the facilities offer them. The library, writing tables, games, victrola, piano, etc., were seldom idle the afternoon I was at the tent and attendance at evening entertainments was large. With the coming of colder weather more permanent place must be provided.
